

KHDO with corporation of IEEW has set up business training. We will teach the new ideas in business with our skillful business trainers. Our reference is entrepreneurship book (Idea in Action) from IEEW. Also our students in business course can apply for 2011 peace through business program to learning more and updating their business. The IEEW and KHDO want to promote the women economic situation with basic business training. The KHDO wants to achieve its goals, with the cooperation of women's organizations in and outside of Afghanistan.

Mission of our group

KHDO is committed towards strengthening civil society by promoting economic and human rights through health and education, with a focus on women and girls in Kandahar. We accomplish these goals by providing educational, health, vocational and business training for women and girls, in partnership with women agencies to empower women in Kandahar in economically and socially.

Major accomplishments of our group since it began.

Successfully implemented a literacy training course for 100 women between 20-35 years from January 2008 to December 2009 and this course is active right now. Successfully implemented a computer training course for 120 Girls' High School from Ma to December 2009. We certificates to our graduation students and they can use it for employing in some offices. This course is active right now and many young girls are learning basic computer and internet skills every day.

The main activities of our group

The women and/or girls served by our organization. There is a need to increase the skill set available to women and girls in order to make them more competitive in the job market. Overall, we work to give women and girls the tools they need to become socially and economically self-determining.

The Institute for Economic Empowerment of Women

Mission Statement

The Institute for Economic Empowerment of Women (IEEW) is a 501(c)3 non profit empowering women to grow their businesses, pursue greater entrepreneurial ventures, and become more active public policy advocates. The Institute accomplishes this mission by focusing on education, mentorship, and coaching women in the United States and abroad who are seeking to acquire entrepreneurial skills to help start and grow a business.

Empowering Women – Public policy affects the bottom line of all businesses, but especially small business in the form of government structure, taxes, city, state and federal rules governing business, etc. The list is endless. Empowering Women is a one-day training designed to teach women business owners the importance of becoming involved in public policy, why it is important to know your elected officials before you need them, how to become a resource to your elected officials, and to teach the steps necessary to accomplish this goal.
